Out Here Alone

Warnings: None

Disclaimer: I don't own the DBZ world or characters or make money off of this.

A very short, kinda sad fic about Mirai Trunks in the future, may not exactly follow the plot line of DBZ though.

I stood on the cliff top. My eyes narrowing like the sliver of the setting sun. I felt so utterly useless. What was left for me? Gohan was dead. I watched the town below, or rather what was left of it after the androids hit. Before...before the city had been depleted, even then I wouldn't have been normal. I always had to train with Gohan, always had to prepare for the artificial humans. Even then we weren't strong enough. I miss him so much.

I looked down on the ruins about me. So much death, so much hurt, because of me, because I let Gohan down, because I let the world down. Looking back I realize that I could have never been a normal teenager. One less day of sparing with Gohan, and I might not even be here now. I felt tears threatening to spill out of my eyes.

No. I would not cry. I got over this a long time ago, when I learned about dad. About Goku, and the others too.

I looked down at my open palms. What would my father have thought of me? From what mom said I guess his expectations were pretty high. I guess I wouldn't have pleased him very well. My sight turned back to the city, there was probably some family down there. Probably had lost everything, but still had each other.

Unlike me. I'd lost everything. All I had left was my mom. That day that Gohan died...I'd felt nothing but rage, at the androids, myself, even Gohan. Now the opposite engulfed me. Sorrow and pain flooded every conscious thought of mine. If only there were some way to go back in time, to save my loved ones, and maybe even see my father...

END

I know, very short, probably not even 2kb. Let me know what you think though please. I WILL be expanding on this later, it's just that I have a new series planned and that might take me a while to get up. So I don't know when, but I will. And remember, you don't have to comment exactly on the day I post this, I'll get the review even if it's about a month later.
